- Be careful to not ignore your girlfriend when you are with her friends: It's important to not ignore your girlfriend when you are with her friends if you want to survive meeting her friends. She may want you to take an interest in her friends but if you go too far and alienate your girlfriend you may doom your relationship. Getting along with her friends is one thing but if she senses you are flirting with them, she may become jealous and it can cause problems in your relationship. Exercise caution when meeting your girlfriend's friends and take an interest in getting to know them but do not go overboard and appear too interested in her friends.
